Copies of the answers will be available after the closing date.

The judge's decision is final, even if it is wrong. The number of letters suggested for a word in the answer corresponds to the spelling the author was using at the time. Don't be put off by finding that your answer has a different number of letters.

In the event of a tie the names of the winners will be placed in a hat and the name drawn out first will be the winner.

The questions are straightforward; there are no anagrams. Two rounds are slightly different this year. After all we do not need to be hidebound by tradition. One involves numbers, the other things that I am told are called emojis. The younger members of the clan suggested this would be of interest.

The compiler would like to record his thanks to those who prepared round 10 and to his lovely assistant, Tracy, for her contributions this year.

Please complete the answers in capital letters.
